

To: D'Andrea, Michael[DANDREA.MICHAEL@EPA.GOV]
From: The Washington Post
Sent: Sun 1/12/2014 12:03:31 PM
Subject: Sunday Morning Headlines [Jan 12, 2014]

View on the Web.

Sunday, January 12, 2014

NATION

Second wave of health-insurance cancellations begins

Millions of people insured by small employers may have to switch health-insurance plans.

(Ariana Eunjung Cha, The Washington Post)

U.S. veterans agonize over al-Qaeda's resurgence in Iraq

For Americans who fought there and lost comrades along the way, recent developments stoke pain and anger.

(Ernesto Londoño, The Washington Post)

More National: Breaking National News & Headlines - Washington Post

LOCAL

Rain day caps wild week of winter weather

It started with a polar vortex and ended with rain, but at least there was no snow.

(Martin Weil, The Washington Post)

McAuliffe sworn in as Virginia governor

The commonwealth's 72nd governor has brought unexpected seriousness to his preparations for office.

(Laura Vozzella, Rachel Weiner and Mark Berman, The Washington Post)

Md. officials were warned for a year of risks to health site

The ill-fated launch of the state's online insurance exchange came after repeated reports of dysfunction.

(Aaron C. Davis and Mary Pat Flaherty, The Washington Post)

Local Digest: Missing diver's body found

A roundup of news from around the region.

(— Lynh Bui, The Washington Post)

Thousands attend D.C. Education Festival

The event is meant to help families navigate the District's growing number of school choices.

(Emma Brown, The Washington Post)

More Post Local: Washington, DC Area News, Traffic, Weather, Sports & More - The Washington

Post

POLITICS

America has changed. Should business, government?

A Shriver report study shows that many Americans think policies are out of touch with U.S. families.
(Dan Balz, The Washington Post)

McAuliffe sworn in as Virginia governor

The commonwealth's 72nd governor has brought unexpected seriousness to his preparations for office.

(Laura Vozzella, Rachel Weiner and Mark Berman, The Washington Post)

Christie scandal exposes GOP rising star to new scrutiny

The fallout from massive traffic jam and governor's aides' role in it hangs over possible 2016 presidential run.

(Karen Tumulty and Robert Costa, The Washington Post)

Tap water may be out for days after W.Va. chemical spill

32 seek medical treatment after an agent used in coal processing leaked from a holding tank.
(Pam Ramsey, The Washington Post)

Gray launches reelection bid, apologizes for '10 campaign

The mayor said he was sorry for "pain and embarrassment" caused by wrongdoing in 2010.
(Mike DeBonis, The Washington Post)

More Post Politics: Breaking Politics News, Political Analysis & More - The Washington Post

STYLE

Carolyn Hax: Friend's loose lips sink trust

Private news about a breast cancer diagnosis is shared with an acquaintance.
(Carolyn Hax, The Washington Post)

Ask Amy: Unflattering photos cause engagement angst

Her future father-in-law sent out a dreadful photo of the couple when announcing his son's engagement.

(Amy Dickinson, The Washington Post)

Miss Manners: Loving the son, loathing the baby mama

Her son's girlfriend is a piece of work, but she'll have to find a way to remain on good terms.
(Miss Manners and Judith Martin, The Washington Post)

More Style: Culture, Arts, Ideas & More - The Washington Post

BUSINESS

Neiman Marcus confirms data breach

The high-end retailer is working to contact consumers whose cards have been used for fraudulent purchases.

(Hayley Tsukayama, The Washington Post)

Techbit: Catch up quickly with Yahoo news app

Relaunched app pulls together top stories and prepares news digests.

(— Hayley Tsukayama, The Washington Post)

Dale T. Mortensen, Nobel-winning economist, dies at 74

Dr. Mortensen, a Northwestern U. scholar, shared the 2010 prize for his work on unemployment and labor.

(Matt Schudel, The Washington Post)

TechBit: Jelly seeks to answer life's toughest questions

How does this dress look? Twitter's founder, Biz Stone, hopes to find someone who can help.

(Hayley Tsukayama, The Washington Post)

The Recap: An ever-harder job gets a woman to do it

With a 56-to-26 vote, the Senate confirmed Janet Yellen as the first woman to lead the Federal Reserve.

(The Washington Post)

More Business News, Financial News, Business Headlines & Analysis - The Washington Post

SPORTS

TV and radio listings, January 12

(The Washington Post)

Wagner's Olympic spot in jeopardy

Gracie Gold wins gold and Polina Edmunds finishes second at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships, but two-time national champion Ashley Wagner falls twice to put her Olympic prospects in doubt.

(Liz Clarke, The Washington Post)

Patriots use Blount instrument vs. Colts

LeGarrette Blount rushes for 166 yards and four touchdowns to carry New England into AFC title game.

(Barry Svrluga, The Washington Post)

Depleted Hoyas collect overtime win

Georgetown overcomes absence of two starters and late foul trouble to earn victory in school's first visit to historic Hinkle Fieldhouse.

(Gene Wang, The Washington Post)

Wizards slip again under leaky roof

A leak at Verizon Center delays the game twice, and Washington loses, 114-107, against the Houston Rockets.

(Adam Kilgore, The Washington Post)

More Sports: Sports News, Scores, Analysis, Schedules & More - The Washington Post

TECHNOLOGY

Neiman Marcus confirms data breach

The high-end retailer is working to contact consumers whose cards have been used for fraudulent purchases.

(Hayley Tsukayama, The Washington Post)

More Technology News - The Washington Post

WORLD

C. African Republic's former ruler seeks exile in Benin

Michel Djotodia arrived in the tiny country after stepping down as president Monday.

(Associated Press, The Washington Post)

World Digest: Jan. 11, 2014

Iran's president to attend economic forum in Davos; African envoys go to S. Sudan to meet with rebel leader.

(The Washington Post)

Violence in western Iraq has killed 60, official says

Iraqi prime minister calls for unity in fight against al-Qaeda militants who have gained foothold in Anbar.

(Sameer N. Yacoub, The Washington Post)

Israelis mourn, remember Ariel Sharon

World leaders paid tribute Saturday to the bear-like and controversial former prime minister.

(William Booth, The Washington Post)

Tweet, tweet: The sound of U.S. policy in restricted Moscow

U.S. Ambassador Michael McFaul finds Twitter helps get the message out in the age of digital diplomacy.

(Kathy Lally, The Washington Post)

More World: World News, International News, Foreign Reporting - The Washington Post

EDITORIAL

A fast track to growth

How a free-trade bill could help bolster the U.S. economy.

(Editorial Board, The Washington Post)

Maryland's costly blunder

Offering emergency coverage should be just the start in fixing this health-care mess.
(Editorial Board, The Washington Post)

A soldier's last battle

Ariel Sharon's vision of disengagement remains unfulfilled.
(Editorial Board, The Washington Post)

More Opinions: Washington Post Opinion, Editorial, Op Ed, Politics Editorials - The Washington Post

Follow The Washington Post:

Unsubscribe

©2014 The Washington Post
1150 15th St NW Washington, DC 20071

Help & Contact Info

Privacy Policy

dandrea.michael@epa.gov